Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI) 1730 11

1 I. INTRODUCTION¹

2 Plaintiffs' opposition confirms the fatal flaw in their Second Amended
 3 Complaint ("SAC"): Plaintiffs do not plead any factual allegations to support their 4 claim to ownership of the subsurface under Union Pacific's right-of-way, which is a 5 fundamental element underlying each and all of their claims. Contrary to Plaintiffs'
 6 contention, their conclusory statements in the SAC that they are the "true owners"
 7 of the subsurface do not suffice. On a motion to dismiss, the court must disregard 8 labels and legal conclusions, and consider only whether plaintiffs have alleged a 9 plausible claim to relief. Plaintiffs have not plausibly alleged how claiming to own 10 property adjacent to a right-of-way is sufficient to state a claim to ownership in the 11 subsurface of the right-of-way.

12 Plaintiffs' appeal to the so-called "center line presumption" in an effort to 13 resuscitate their claims is unavailing. The center line presumption arises only 14 where the conveying deed uses a "monument" to describe the property boundary.
 15 Plaintiffs have not alleged that their properties were conveyed by deeds using 16 Union Pacific's right-of-way as a boundary. Nor have Plaintiffs alleged facts
 17 regarding their chain of title, or submitted their property deeds. As such, Plaintiffs 18 have not pled a basis to rely on the center line presumption. Because Plaintiffs 19 have not alleged any facts supporting their claims of ownership, each and every one 20 of their claims – which assume Plaintiffs' ownership – must be dismissed.

21 In addition to this basic deficiency, Plaintiffs also have not pled the necessary
 22 elements of their fourth cause of action. Plaintiffs' decision to plead their claims 23 for quiet title, slander of title, and ejectment as a single, omnibus claim is improper 24 because it makes it impossible to understand the scope and nature of their

25 ¹ Kinder Morgan filed a similar motion to dismiss in Rivera, et al. v. Union Pacific
 26 Railroad Co., et al., Case No. 4:15-cv-01842-PJH, which is set for hearing on 27 September 30, 2015. If the Court grants the motions to transfer, it need not rule on 28 the motions to dismiss, and may transfer this case to the Northern District with the motions to dismiss pending to be heard at the same time as those filed in Rivera.

1 allegations, and it does not give Kinder Morgan fair notice of Plaintiffs' claims.
 2 And despite Plaintiffs' protestations to the contrary, the California statute requiring 3 a quiet title claim to be verified is a substantive rule of law routinely applied in 4 federal court. Plaintiffs also fail to plead publication of a false statement to support
 5 the slander of title claim. The mere existence of documents between the parties – 6 without any allegation that the documents were recorded or made public – and 7 statements made by parties in litigation (which are protected by litigation privilege), 8 are insufficient.

9 Finally, Plaintiffs' fifth cause of action for violation of California Business &
 10 Professions Code section 17200 ("Section 17200") fails because Plaintiffs have not 11 alleged entitlement to any relief available under that statute. Plaintiffs admit that 12 restitution is available under Section 17200 only if the defendant has wrongfully
 13 acquired benefits or profits in which a plaintiff has an ownership interest. Plaintiffs 14 have not, however, pled any ownership interest in Kinder Morgan's profits.
 15 Additionally, it is black letter law that attorney's fees are not an available remedy
 16 under Section 17200. Plaintiffs' citation to cases awarding fees under an entirely 17 different statute is unavailing.

18 In sum, Kinder Morgan respectfully requests that its motion be granted and 19 Plaintiffs' SAC dismissed.

20 II. ARGUMENT

21 A. Plaintiffs' Conclusory Legal Assertions Regarding Ownership Are 22 Not Factual Allegations.

23 1. Plaintiffs Misrepresent Their Own Pleading.

24 Citing only excerpts from SAC Paragraphs 13 and 58, Plaintiffs argue that 25 they "explicitly stated an ownership interest in the subsurface," and that "several 26 times throughout the Complaint [they] unambiguously state they own land beneath 27 Union Pacific's right-of-way." (Opp. at 3:5-6, 3:16-20.) Plaintiffs are wrong.
 28

1 A review of the complete statements in Plaintiffs' SAC proves the point.
2 Paragraph 13 states:

3 Due to Defendants' unlawful conduct, Plaintiffs, on behalf of 4 themselves and others, bring this lawsuit to recover damages, punitive
5 damages, restitution, attorney fees, and pre- and post-judgment
6 interest, and request declarations that they are the true owners of 7 the property underneath the Railroad's right-of-way and that 8 Defendants are not entitled to profit or collect rent from Plaintiffs' and 9 Class Members' land.

10 (SAC ¶ 13 [emphasis added].) Similarly, Paragraph 58 states:

11 Because the Railroad and Pipeline are not the owners of the property
12 where the pipeline was laid, they have trespassed and been unjustly 13 enriched for over 50 years, and they continue to do so today. Due to 14 the Railroad's and Pipeline's actions, Plaintiffs, on behalf of 15 themselves and others similarly situated, are seeking to recover
16 damages, punitive damages, restitution, and pre- and post-judgment 17 interest and a declaration that they are the true owners of the 18 property underneath the Railroad's right-of-way and that the 19 Railroad and Pipeline cannot profit or collect rent from the land
20 owned by Plaintiffs and the Class Members.

21 (SAC ¶58 [emphasis added].) Asking the Court to ultimately declare that Plaintiffs 22 "are the true owners of the property underneath the Railroad's right-of-way" is not 23 a factual allegation.

24 Likewise, Plaintiffs' citation to the proposed class definition is not a factual
25 allegation. (See Opp. at 3:20-24 [citing SAC ¶59 (defining proposed class as: "All
26 landowners who own land in fee adjacent to and underlying the railroad easement
27 under which the pipeline is located within the State of California.")].)

28 The Court cannot regard such legal conclusions as facts sufficient to plead a viable claim to ownership in the subsurface of Union Pacific's right-of-way. See Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678-79 (2009) (court must disregard legal conclusions and complaint must allege "plausible" claim to relief; must be more than "unadorned, the-defendant-unlawfully-harmed-me accusation"); Bell Atl.
Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007) (court must not accept "labels and

1 conclusions” and “[f]actual allegations must be enough to raise a right to relief
2 above the speculative level”).

3 At most, Plaintiffs make the legal assertion that Union Pacific does not own
4 the subsurface under its right-of-way. However, even if this is true, it does not
5 mean that Plaintiffs do. As shown in Kinder Morgan’s Opening Memorandum, 6 Plaintiffs have not alleged any facts to support a claim that they could own the 7 subsurface under Union Pacific’s right-of-way.

8 Further, this is not a mere pleading deficiency. Contrary to Plaintiffs’
9 assertions, merely claiming to own property adjacent to a right-of-way is not 10 sufficient to state a claim to ownership in the subsurface of the right-of-way. See 11 Section II(A)(2), infra; see also Millyard v. Faus, 268 Cal. App. 2d 76, 83 (1968).

12 2. Plaintiffs Do Not Allege Facts To Support Claims Based On 13 The “Center Line Presumption.”

14 Plaintiffs overstate the potential application of the “center line presumption,”
15 and their reliance on it in an attempt to save their pleading is misplaced. Although 16 Plaintiffs claim they are “presumed to own the land to the center of Union Pacific’s 17 easement, including the subsurface” (Opp. at 4:20-21), Plaintiffs fail to recognize 18 that the SAC does not contain any allegations to invoke the presumption.

19 Indeed, Plaintiffs here “seek to extend the Faus v. Nelson rule beyond the 20 holding of that case.” Millyard, 268 Cal. App. 2d at 83. As explained by the Court 21 in Millyard, “[m]erely because a property abuts any railway easement does not, as 22 [Plaintiffs] claim, give rise to the presumption that they own to the center of the 23 easement.” See id.; see also Roeder v. Burlington Northern, Inc., 105 Wash. 2d 24 567, 578 (1986) (citing, inter alia, California law regarding the center line
25 presumption and stating: “A property owner receives no interest in a railroad right 26 of way simply through ownership of abutting land.”).

27 It is true that the so-called center line presumption, or “monument doctrine,” 28 “presumes an intent to grant to the middle of the monument (road, railway

1 easement or stream) [where] the conveyance designates the object as a monument
 2 or boundary.” Millyard, 268 Cal. App. 2d at 83. But this presumption only arises
 3 where the conveying deed uses the monument to describe the property boundary.²

4 In any event, Plaintiffs’ SAC does not allege that Plaintiffs’ properties were 5 conveyed by deeds using the right-of-way as a boundary. Nor does the SAC
 6 contain any allegations regarding Plaintiffs’ chain of title or claiming that Plaintiffs
 7 received their property from the fee owner of the right-of-way property. Indeed, 8 Plaintiffs do not even submit their own property deeds or any verification as to 9 their title. Accordingly, Plaintiffs cannot rely on the center line presumption to 10 dodge dismissal of the SAC.³

11 Moreover, Plaintiffs cannot avoid that pleading a valid claim to ownership of 12 the right-of-way subsurface is required for them to establish standing. See, e.g.,
 13 Regan v. Qwest Commc’ns Int’l, Inc., No. CIV. 2:01-766 WBS KJM, 2010 WL
 14 3941471, at *2, *7-8 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 5, 2010); Sammamish, 2015 WL 3561533, at 15 *2 (W.D. Wash. June 5, 2015); see also Johnson v. United States, 2010 WL
 16 4366262, 402 Fed. App’x 298, 299-300 (9th Cir. Nov. 2, 2010) (“[a] plaintiff 17 bringing a quiet title action involving real property must have a legal interest in the 18 property”; affirming finding of no standing). “[S]tanding is a[] fundamental 19 requirement for bringing suit,” and thus Plaintiffs’ SAC should be dismissed for 20 failure to even allege a basis for them to prove standing. See Regan, 2010 WL

 22 ² For example, where the conveying deed uses metes and bounds to describe the 23 property, or where the deed contains express intent to carry title only to the line of 24 the right-of-way, the grantee does not have title to the center of the right-of-way.
 25 See, e.g., Millyard, 268 Cal. App. 2d at 83; Warden v. S. Pasadena Realty & Imp.
Co., 178 Cal. 440, 442 (1918).

26 ³ Plaintiffs’ counsel is aware of this shortcoming. See Sammamish Homeowners v.
 27 Cnty. of King, No. C15-284 MJP, 2015 WL 3561533, at *2-4 (W.D. Wash. June 5, 28 2015) (granting motion to dismiss based on, inter alia, plaintiffs’ inability to rely on the center line presumption where the plaintiffs are represented by the same attorneys from Stewart Wald & McCulley LLC that represent Plaintiffs here).

1 3941471, at *2, *7-8; Sammamish, 2015 WL 3561533, at *2-4 (finding that 2 plaintiffs lacked standing and thus the court lacked subject matter jurisdiction).

3 B. Plaintiffs’ Omnibus “Quiet Title / Slander Of Title / Ejectment”
4 Claim Is Uncertain And Fails To Plead Essential Elements.

5 Plaintiffs contend that they may plead their claims for quiet title, slander of 6 title, and ejectment as one single, omnibus count because the counts allegedly 7 “arise out of same transactions or occurrences.” (Opp. at 5:14-16.) But “the federal 8 courts consistently have required separate statements when separate claims are 9 pleaded, notwithstanding the fact that the claims arose from a single transaction.”
10 5A Fed. Prac. & Proc. Civ. § 1324 (3d ed) (citing cases).

11 By mixing allegations related to different claims, Plaintiffs render it difficult
12 (if not impossible) for Kinder Morgan to discern the bases for Plaintiffs’ claims,
13 including the factual allegations applicable to each claim. On the other hand, 14 requiring them to plead separate counts “permit[s] pleadings to serve their intended 15 purpose to frame the issue and provide the basis for informed pretrial proceedings.”
16 Prevedello v. Fitter, No. CV 15-0776-GHK JEM, 2015 WL 3751820, at *3 (C.D.
17 Cal. June 16, 2015); see also Kennedy v. Sonoma Cnty. Superior Court, No. 15-18 CV-01642-KAW, 2015 WL 4692464, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 6, 2015) (“For the sake
19 of clarity and so that each defendant has fair notice of the claim, or claims, asserted
20 against him or her, Plaintiff should separately plead each cause of action, along 21 with the specific facts that support each one and specific facts pertaining to each
22 defendant.”); Brown v. L.A. Sheriff Dep’t, No. CV 15-0483-FMO JEM, 2015 WL 23 3532904, at *6 (C.D. Cal. June 4, 2015) (separate counts “allow the Court and 24 Defendants to understand the scope and nature of Plaintiff’s allegations”).

25 For this reason alone, Plaintiffs’ omnibus claim should be dismissed. See, 26 e.g., Prevedello, 2015 WL 3751820, at *3 (complaint subject to dismissal because 27 it “improperly mixes allegations related to different claims”); Brown, 2015 WL

8 Additionally, Plaintiffs fail to show that they have pled the basic elements of 9 their claims for quiet title, slander of title, and ejectment.

10 1. Plaintiffs Do Not Plead The Elements Of Quiet Title.

11 a. California’s Verification Requirement Is Substantive 12 And Applies Regardless Of Plaintiffs’ Choice To Sue In Federal Court.

13 California Code of Civil Procedure section 761.020 (“Section 761.020”) sets
 14 forth the elements of a quiet title claim in California, including requiring that a 15 complaint seeking to quiet title be verified. See, e.g., Simmons First Nat’l Bank v.
 16 Lehman, No. 13-CV-02876-DMR, 2015 WL 1503437, at *5 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 1, 17 2015) (“Quiet title claims are governed by [S]ection 761.020.”); Rupisan v. JP
 18 Morgan Chase Bank, NA, No. 1:12-CV-0327 AWI GSA, 2012 WL 3764022, at *21
 19 (E.D. Cal. Aug. 29, 2012) (“California’s quiet title statute, [Section] 761.020, 20 requires certain pleading formalities, including a verified complaint....”).

21 Plaintiffs contend they do not have to verify their complaint because this is a 22 “California state court pleading requirement.” (Opp. at 7:8-9). This argument 23 misses the mark. “When questions of state law are raised in federal court, the 24 federal court generally applies the state’s substantive law but federal procedural
 25 law.” Soc. Apps, LLC v. Zynga, Inc., No. 4:11-CV-04910 YGR, 2012 WL
 26 2203063, at *1 (N.D. Cal. June 14, 2012) (citing Erie R. Co. v. Tompkins, 304 U.S.
 27 64, 78 (1938)). State rules that are “clearly substantive,” and thus must be applied
 28 by federal courts, include those that “define the elements of a cause of action.”

1 Computer Econ., Inc. v. Gartner Grp., Inc., 50 F. Supp. 2d 980, 990 (S.D. Cal.
2 1999) (emphasis added).

3 Even if Section 761.020 were not clearly substantive, it should still be 4 applied here. “[C]ourts may apply ostensibly procedural rules when their non-5 application would create an incentive for plaintiffs to file actions in federal court.”
6 Id. at 991. Failing to apply Section 761.020 would influence a plaintiff’s choice of 7 forum: a plaintiff with a weak quiet title claim would choose federal court if 8 offered a chance to circumvent the heightened pleading requirements of Section
9 761.020. See id. at 992 (applying California Code of Civil Procedure provision 10 limiting discovery in trade secret actions until plaintiff adequately identified 11 misappropriated trade secrets; statute “enacted to deter” unsupported lawsuits).

12 Further, even where a state law appears procedural, it may be applied in 13 federal court if its objective is substantive. See id. (considering California’s interest 14 in “curb[ing] unsupported...lawsuits”); U.S. ex rel. Newsham v. Lockheed Missiles
15 & Space Co., 190 F.3d 963, 973 (9th Cir. 1999) (applying California anti-SLAPP
16 statute because “California has articulated the important, substantive state interests 17 furthered by the Anti-SLAPP statute”). Here, requiring Plaintiffs to verify their 18 claim to title at the onset of a lawsuit serves an important state interest of curbing 19 baseless quiet title actions. See Frio v. Superior Court, 203 Cal. App. 3d 1480, 20 1498 (Ct. App. 1988) (“The object of a verification is to assure good faith in the 21 averments or statements of a party.”).

22 The court in Vargas, cited by Plaintiffs, did not analyze any of the above
23 factors, as is required. See Vargas v. HSBC Bank, No. 11-CV-2729 BEN RBB,
24 2012 WL 3957994, at *10 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 10, 2012). Far from being “frivolous,” 25 Kinder Morgan’s argument is in accord with numerous other federal courts that 26 have dismissed quiet title claims for failure to meet the verification requirement.
27 See, e.g., Briosos v. Wells Fargo Bank, 737 F. Supp. 2d 1018, 1020, 1031-32 (N.D.
28 Cal. 2010); Ritchie v. Cmty. Lending Corp., No. CV 09-02484DDPJWJX, 2009 WL

Countrywide Home Loans*, No. 1:09-CV-00912-AWI-SM, 2009 WL 2500710, at *7 (E.D. Cal. Aug. 14, 2009); Gammad v. Citimortgage, Inc., No. C 11-3531 MMC, 2011 WL 6728951, at *4 n.8 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 21, 2011).

b. Plaintiffs' Cursory Allegations Do Not Satisfy the Remaining Elements of Quiet Title.

Plaintiffs also have not satisfied the other elements of their quiet title claim. To plead quiet title, the verified complaint must include: “(1) a legal description of the property and its street address or common designation, (2) the title of the plaintiff and the basis of the title, (3) the adverse claims to the title of the plaintiff, (4) the date as of which the determination is sought, and (5) a prayer for the determination of the title of the plaintiff against the adverse claim.” Delino v. Platinum Cmty. Bank, 628 F. Supp. 2d 1226, 1237 (S.D. Cal. 2009) (citing Section 761.020). Here, Plaintiffs contend that the references to tax parcel numbers for their properties satisfy the requirement that they describe the property. (Opp. at 7:18-27.) Presumably, however, Plaintiffs are seeking to quiet title in the subsurface of Union Pacific’s right-of-way. Allegations of tax parcel numbers for properties adjacent to the right-of-way cannot support Plaintiffs’ quiet title claim.

Plaintiffs also contend that all they need do is offer the bare assertion that they are the “fee owners” of the subsurface to satisfy the requirement that they set forth the “basis for their title in the property.” (See Opp. at 8:9-19.) Not so. “In a quiet title action, the plaintiff must prevail on the strength of his own title, and not on the weakness of defendant’s title.” Millyard, 268 Cal. App. 2d at 82 (emphasis added). Mere legal conclusions of ownership, unsupported by factual averions, are insufficient to support a quiet title claim. See Adesokan v. U.S. Bank, N.A., No. 1:11-CV-01236-LJO, 2012 WL 395969, at *4 (E.D. Cal. Feb. 7, 2012) (dismissing quiet title claim because complaint “lack[ed] sufficient facts as

1 it relates to the basis of Plaintiff's purported title"), aff'd, 582 Fed. App'x 672 (9th
 2 Cir. 2014); Evans v. BAC Home Loans Servicing LP, No. C10-0656 RSM, 2010
 3 WL 5138394, at *3 (W.D. Wash. Dec. 10, 2010) (dismissing claim where 4 "Plaintiffs fail to make any factual allegations in their complaint to support the legal 5 conclusion that they are the owners of the disputed property"); Brockway v. JP
 6 Morgan Chase Bank, No. 11CV2982 JM BGS, 2012 WL 2726758, at *4 (S.D. Cal.
 7 July 9, 2012) (dismissing claim where complaint "fail[ed] to allege any basis to 8 infer that Plaintiff's interest in the property is superior to the...interest held by 9 Defendants"); see also Green v. Alliance Title, No. CIV S-10-0242MCEEFBP, 10 2010 WL 3505072, at *14 (E.D. Cal. Sept. 2, 2010) (dismissing claim based only 11 on "conclusory allegations").

12 Plaintiffs also failed to affirmatively allege the "date as of which the 13 determination is sought." See Tamayo v. World Sav. Bank, FSB, No. 08CV2287
 14 JLS CAB, 2009 WL 8652543, at *10 (S.D. Cal. July 23, 2009) (dismissing quiet 15 title claim in part because plaintiff failed "to identify the date as of which the 16 determination" was sought); Moses v. GMAC Mortgage, LLC, No. 09-CV-1961W
 17 (BLM), 2010 WL 2775634, at *5 (S.D. Cal. July 14, 2010) (same); Ines v.
 18 Countrywide Home Loans, Inc., No. 08CV1267WQHNLS, 2009 WL 690108, at *5
 19 (S.D. Cal. Mar. 12, 2009) (same). Plaintiffs offer no support for their contention
 20 that they can simply point to the date of the COA Opinion, or resort to a "default 21 date," to satisfy this statutory requirement.

22 Finally, Plaintiffs' attempt to cobble together the remaining elements of this 23 claim by pointing to various scattered paragraphs of their Complaint (see Opp. at 24 9:1-7, 10:7-13), only serves to highlight the uncertainty of their pleading. Because 25 Plaintiffs have impermissibly pled three causes of action in one count, it is unclear
 26 what prayer for relief relates to which claim, or what specifically is the adverse 27 claim to title underlying their quiet title claim. Plaintiffs have failed to clearly set 28 out their claim for quiet title. The claim should be dismissed.

2. Plaintiffs Do Not Plead The Elements Of Slander Of Title.

Nor have Plaintiffs adequately pled slander of title. Plaintiffs contend that they have pled sufficient factual allegations to show publication of a false statement, pointing to their allegations that Defendants “entered into master agreements in 1955 and 1956 wherein the Railroad rented portions of the subsurface under its right-of-way to the Pipeline.” (Opp. at 11:3-6 (citing SAC ¶¶ 6, 32, 35-36).) But general allegations of the existence of agreements between the parties do not give any information about the contents of the alleged false statements. See Chan Tang v. Bank of Am., N.A., No. SACV 11-2048 DOC, 2012 WL 960373, at *15 (C.D. Cal. Mar. 19, 2012) (dismissing slander of title claim where plaintiffs had “not alleged which publications caused the alleged slander”).

Moreover, Plaintiffs do not allege that the master agreements were recorded or otherwise publically disclosed, and thus Plaintiffs have not pled the publication element. See Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instructions (CACI) 1730 Slander of Title – Essential Factual Elements (“To establish this claim, [plaintiff] must prove...[t]hat the statement was made to a person other than [plaintiff] ..[or] specify other publication, [such as] became a public record”); Simmons, 2015 WL 1503437, at *4 (“a slander of title claim requires an affirmative act of publication”); Cyr v. McGovran, 206 Cal. App. 4th 645, 651 (2012) (holding that “[s]lander of title occurs when a person...publishes a false statement that disparages title to property and causes pecuniary loss” and dismissing claim for lack of a publication).

Plaintiffs also point to their allegations that Union Pacific “took the position...before the California courts that it owns the property beneath its tracks – not Plaintiffs and the Class.” (Opp. at 11:13-16 (citing SAC ¶¶ 42-45).) However, “[t]here is no liability for a slander of title if the defendant was privileged in making the disparaging statement.” Stamas v. Cnty. of Madera, 795 F. Supp. 2d 1047, 1070 (E.D. Cal. 2011). Privileged publications include those made in a “judicial proceeding.” CAL. CIV. CODE § 47(b); see also Silberg v. Anderson, 50 Cal. 3d 205, 212 (1990) (“The privilege [in Civil Code Section 47(b)] applies to any publication required or permitted by law in the course of a judicial proceeding....”); Olszewski v. Scripps Health, 30 Cal.4th 798, 830 (2003) (same). Statements made by Union Pacific in litigation therefore cannot form the basis of a slander of title claim. See, e.g., eCash Techs., Inc. v. Guagliardo, 127 F. Supp. 2d 1069, 1082 (C.D. Cal. 2000) (dismissing slander of title claim premised on privileged communication), aff’d, 35 Fed. App’x 498 (9th Cir. 2002); Salazar v. Accredited Home Lenders, Inc., No. 10-CV-0319W (AJB), 2010 WL 2674405, at *4 (S.D. Cal. July 2, 2010) (same).

3. Plaintiffs Do Not Plead The Elements Of Ejectment.

As discussed above, Plaintiffs have not pled an ownership interest in the subsurface of Union Pacific’s right-of-way, and have not pled that they are entitled to the center line presumption. See supra § II(A); Baugh v. Consumers Assoc. Ltd., 241 Cal. App. 2d 672, 675 (1966) (no cause of action for ejectment stated where plaintiff did not plead “ownership disclosing a right to possession). Even if Plaintiffs had pled a sufficient interest in the property, they have not alleged how this would entitle them to eject a longstanding public utility from the right-of-way. Plaintiffs’ claim for ejectment is wholly unsupported, and should be dismissed.

C. The Section 17200 Claim Seeks Relief That Is Not Available.

Plaintiffs’ request under Section 17200 for “benefits and profits” from Defendants “closely resembles a claim for damages, something that is not permitted under the UCL.” Korea Supply v. Lockheed Martin, 29 Cal. 4th 1134, 1150-51 (2003); see also Madrid v. Perot Sys. Corp., 130 Cal. App. 4th 440, 465 (2005) (nonrestitutionary disgorgement not recoverable under Section 17200; “plaintiff’s assertion that defendants received ill-gotten gain does not make a viable UCL claim unless the gain was money in which plaintiff had a vested interest”).

Plaintiffs acknowledge that they can obtain “restitution” of Defendants’ profits under Section 17200 only if they have an “ownership interest” in such

1 profits. (Opp. at 12:26-27, 13:18-19). However, without citing any authority,
 2 Plaintiffs argue that they need not allege such ownership interest at the pleading
 3 stage. (Id. at 13:18-21.) Plaintiffs are wrong. See L.A. Taxi Coop., Inc. v. Uber
 4 Techs., Inc., No. 15-CV-01257-JST, 2015 WL 4397706, at *10 (N.D. Cal. July 17, 5 2015) (dismissing Section 17200 claim where Plaintiff failed to “allege an 6 ownership interest” in defendant’s profits); BizCloud, Inc. v. Computer Sci. Corp., 7 No. C-13-05999 JCS, 2014 WL 1724762, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 29, 2014)
 8 (dismissing Section 17200 claim that did not plead facts showing vested interest in 9 defendant’s profits); Lee Myles Assocs. Corp. v. Paul Rubke Enter., Inc., 557 F.
 10 Supp. 2d 1134, 1144 (S.D. Cal. 2008) (granting motion to strike demand for 11 “restitutionary damages” under Section 17200 because “[t]he Complaint does not 12 allege that Plaintiff seeks the return of any money or other property Defendants 13 obtained from Plaintiff or in which Plaintiff had a vested interest”); see also 14 Casault v. Fed. Nat. Mortgage Ass’n, 915 F. Supp. 2d 1113, 1128-29 (C.D. Cal.
 15 2012) (“plaintiffs...must state with reasonable particularity the facts supporting the 16 statutory elements of the violation” of Section 17200).

17 Trying to salvage the claim, Plaintiffs contend they are not impermissibly 18 seeking nonrestitutionary disgorgement, but rather are seeking to recover “their 19 land” and “the benefits of their real property from [Kinder Morgan].” (Opp. at 20 14:1-13.) In the SAC, however, Plaintiffs do not request “recovery of their land” 21 under Section 17200. Instead, Plaintiffs demand “restitution damages for the 22 benefits and profits that unfairly or unlawfully obtained by Defendants, and 23 reasonable attorneys’ fees.” (SAC ¶ 110). Plaintiffs do not specify what those 24 “benefits and profits” are, and under what theory they are entitled to them. Because 25 Plaintiffs have not alleged a proper claim for relief under Section 17200, the claim
 26 should be dismissed, and the improper requests for relief stricken from the SAC.

27

1 Additionally, it is well-settled that Plaintiffs are not entitled to collect
 2 attorney’s fees under Section 17200. See, e.g., Cel-Tech Commc’ns, Inc. v. L.A.
 3 Cellular Tel. Co., 20 Cal. 4th 163, 179 (1999); People ex rel. City of Santa Monica
 4 v. Gabriel, 186 Cal. App. 4th 882, 889 (2010); Korea Supply, 29 Cal. 4th at 1148.
 5 Nevertheless, Plaintiffs contend that “attorneys’ fees are properly awarded under 6 UCL claims...when the action results in a significant benefit, whether pecuniary or 7 nonpecuniary, to a large class of persons.” (Opp. at 17:3-15.) In support, Plaintiffs 8 cite cases discussing the ability to recover attorney’s fees under an entirely
 9 different statute: California’s “private attorney general” statute, California Code
 10 of Civil Procedure section 1021.5 (“Section 1021.5”). (Id. at 7:3-12.)

11 Plaintiffs have not pled a basis for recovery of attorney’s fees under Section
 12 1021.5. “[T]he simple fact that a class action involves a sizable number of putative 13 class members does not by itself allow for the recovery of attorneys’ fees under 14 section 1021.5.” Gibson v. Chrysler Corp., No. C-99-1047 MHP, 1999 WL
 15 1049572, at *11 (N.D. Cal. May 28, 1999), aff’d in part, rev’d in part on other
 16 grounds, 261 F.3d 927 (9th Cir. 2001)

17 In any event, Section 1021.5 fees “are not part of the underlying cause of 18 action, but are incidents to the cause and are properly awarded after entry of a 19 judgment.” N. California River Watch v. Fluor Corp., No. 10-CV-05105-WHO,
 20 2014 WL 4954638, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 2, 2014). Accordingly, whether Plaintiffs 21 will ultimately be able to recover fees under Section 1021.5 is irrelevant. As such,
 22 Plaintiffs’ improper request for attorney’s fees should be stricken from the SAC.
 23 See id. (striking request for attorney’s fees which was not supported by any cause of 24 action, notwithstanding potential availability of fees under Section 1021.5).

25 III. CONCLUSION

26 For the reasons stated above and in the Opening Memorandum, Kinder
 27 Morgan respectfully requests that the Court grant its Motions, and dismiss 28 Plaintiffs’ SAC for failing to adequately plead an ownership interest in the

1 subsurface of the right-of-way, which is an essential element of all of Plaintiffs'
2 claims. Additionally, Kinder Morgan respectfully requests that the Court dismiss
3 Plaintiffs' fourth and fifth causes of action, and strike Plaintiffs' improper requests
4 for relief under Section 17200.
